Envisioning and Building the Capacity to Achieve the 2030 Agenda

Project Description

The Institute for Conscious Global Change (ICGC) believes data, mapping, infrastructure planning and geodesign are critical to achieving Agenda 2030 for Sustainable Development. The primary activity of the Institute is the Millennium Earth Project (MEP), an infrastructure based mapping solution which focuses on capacity building, citizen engagement, community and government collaboration, and technology transfer in each country.

The Millennium Earth Project will virtually develop the necessary infrastructure in each country based on a comprehensive and multifaceted approach which include the integration of the 17 sustainable goals and 169 targets. The immediate benefit of each virtual map includes the visualization of each country's potential for leaving no one behind. Not only does MEP create holistic developmental blueprints for each country, but is also designed to build hope and to motivate citizens to become stakeholders in the process of their country's transformation. A transformation in which the dimensions of Social, Environmental and Economic sustainability is the new basis for Development; this approach lends itself to the eradication of extreme poverty for everyone in all 193 countries.

Organizational History

The Institute for Conscience Global Change (ICGC) was established in 2007 and is a 501(c) (3) non-profit NGO with Special Consultative Status with the Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC) of the United Nations. Our aim is to design a Virtual Globe using Geographic Information Systems (GIS) technology to make visible the needs of each country. In so doing, we highlight the challenges they face regarding sustainable development.

Mission Statement

The Institute for Conscious Global Change is dedicated to visualize, analyze, explain, and disseminate data to make sustainable development plans universally accessible

Vision Statement

Fundamentally Changing the Way Humanity Lives and Creates Its Environment

Goal

To build A Visual Framework to meet the Sustainable Development Goals
